Using an Email Group for Reminders

For more than a few recipients, we recommend members set up a free account at a site like http://groups.yahoo.com or http://groups.google.com

When you create a group using one of these (or similar) services You get a single email address for all the members.
You can dynamically add/remove people from the email list without having to update each event on your calendar.